Good morning,

As a newcomer to North Yorkshire I am horrified to learn that Fracking for gas is even being considered by the North Yorkshire County Council.

You must surely be aware that this is totally opposite to the greener country we are all working for. I have changed my own home to heat by a heat pump, I have also installed Solar Panels with a battery system and have downsized my car. What is the point of local people trying to help the climate change situation if you go ahead with this proposal?

You must also be aware that other UK sites have shut down due to downstream emissions. The last thing we need is more wasteful, climate damaging systems when we are all supposed to be trying to use renewable, clean energy. We also know that earth tremors have been caused by drilling.

In addition, precious farmland will be destroyed, the site location is very close to homes and a rural village. For What? A possible 20 years of gas production. Then what will be left?

To deface our local countryside in this very beautiful part of the country is quite dreadful

Please think again.

Yours
