To whom it may concern.

I object most vehemently to these plans. I have done much research into fracking and it's consequences Vs it's benefits. Look at the US situation around toxic water detoxification & containment issues. Toxic water leaking into the water tables; at a time when clean water is one of our most precious life commodities (yes I too see the oxymoron there).

Methane is very toxic to us, other species & our over heating climate. And it leaks into the water table. Fact.

Fault lines beneath this area & earthquakes at Preston New Rd fracking site. Which got shut down. Do I need to go on.

There are no easy answers to the problems we as a species face. I ask you to think about the wider context here. Other species, plants & trees, The Climate.

At some point we have to stop and change our ways. Reducing our energy bills & needs sounds a great place to start even if it's not popular.

I recommend making a decision based on the 7 generations theory. 3 behind, ours/yours and the 3 to come. Are our children's children going to appreciate living in an over heated, toxic landscape?

Good luck.
