New comments have been received for application NY/2025/0030/ENV from Mr Ian Greaves.

Comments:

The process that is being used, whilst not coming within the strict definition of fracking, has much in common with that controversial process. The problems that will be encountered will be similar to those encountered with fracking. The geology of east Yorkshire is complex, with events of mountain building and folding leading to a fissured and fractured world beneath our feet. Introducing a wide series of different agents to that world, without a full knowledge of how they interact with each other, is a prospect of grave concern. This has a particular relevance to the aquifers that supply water to a number of communities in that area. The fact that this is happening in area of happy childhood holidays (Burniston Camping) fills me with a sense of loss.
